

Crusade for Christ

COL. GORDON "Jack" MOHR, AUS. RET.
400 Harper Lane
North Little Rock, AR 72118
(501) 753-2095

Special Report

From the Watchman's Corner

The Noahide Laws

A Read and Pressing Danger!

Very few people who go by the name of Christian, know very much about the Noahide Laws, which today govern America, in place of the Laws of Almighty God, which made and has preserved America as a great nation. Very few Christians know of the disastrous effect this heathen law will have on our Israel people.

The fact that the majority of White Christians, who are Israelites of the "seed of Abraham", and do not know this is their heritage, because of false teachings in most Christian churches, which has given this position to the antichrist's of Judaism, as we have forgotten God's warning in 2 Chronicles 19:2 - "... Shouldst thou help the ungodly (and the Jewish people our churches claim are God's Chosen, are the one's described in 1 John 2:22 as antichrists), and love them that hate the Lord (they call Him a bastard)? Therefore is wrath upon thee from before the Lord." Is not part of this discussion, but merely mentioned to put this message into proper perspective. Our antichrist enemy, whom Jesus described as "children of hell" (Matthew 23:25), and in other places, have cleverly lead our people, through Jewish fables the Apostle Paul warned us about in Titus 1:10, 11, & 14, to accept these heathen laws, which are hastening Zionist attempts to "destroy white Christian civilization."

Paul said of them, "For there are many unruly and vain talkers and deceivers, specially they of the circumcision: Whose mouths must be stopped, who subvert (Greek - anatrepo - meaning: "to overthrow or overturn the truth"), whole houses, teaching things they ought not, for filthy lucre's (money) sake . . . Not giving heed to Jewish fables, and commandments of men, that turn from the truth."

I realize that some of you may have been taught in your church, that Jesus did away with the Law, when He died on Calvary, and He did do away with the ceremonial laws and the laws of sacrifice, when he made His "once and for all time sacrifice for our sins." Both lie and the Apostle Paul said that God's Law; the Law of the Ten Commandments was not abolished. Jesus said, "I am not come to destroy the Law, but to fulfill it." (Matthew 5:17) The Apostle Paul tells us in Romans 3:31, "Do we make void the Law through faith? God forbid: yea, we establish the law." In 1 John 3:4, sin is described as transgression of the Law.

So we must definitely deal with Law, either that of God, or of the enemy.

In the first Century church, a great disturbance was created in the Jerusalem church when men from Judea"(evidently Jews), began to teach that a man "must be circumcised before die I could be saved."

This was brought to the attention of the Jerusalem Church Council, where the Apostle Peter addressed it in Acts 15:10 when he said, "Now therefore why tempt ye God, to put a yoke upon the neck of disciples, which neither our fathers or we were able to bear?" (Refer also to Matthew 23:4), where Jesus, speaking to the Jewish leaders accused them of "laying heavy burdens, and grievous to be borne, on men's shoulders, but they themselves will not move them with one of their fingers."

The Apostle Paul warns us in Galatians 5:1, to "Stand fast therefore in the liberty wherewith Christ has made us free, and be riot entangled again with the yoke of bondage." In other words, don't allow yourself to believe keeping the Law can save you. Paul says that. those who place their trust for salvation in merely keeping the Law have "fallen from grace."

Unfortunately many in the modern church have gone "overboard" on this truth and in their newfound freedom, have often "thrown the baby out with the bath water"; by believing the Law no longer applies to Christians. Yet Jesus said in John 14:15 - "If ye love me, keep my Commandments." Then in Matthew 5:19 He reinforced this by saying, "Whosoever therefore shall break one of these least commandments, and shall teach men so, shall be called the least in the Kingdom of heaven: but whosoever shall do and teach them, the same shall be called great in the Kingdom of heaven."

So you can see that keeping God's Law the Ten Commandments is very important, although this does not save you.

If these things are true, and God's Word says they are, then how did Christian America become entangled in the heathen Noahide Laws that govern us? And what effect do they have on our Christian witness?

This information on the Noahide Laws, which were approved by U.S. Congress in 1991, comes from Pastor Cohen A. Rechart, who is pastor in an Apostolic Messianic Fellowship. (I'm not sure if this is a Jewish group or not.)

If it is Jewish, then it cannot be Christian, for there can be no such thing as a Jewish Christian or a Christian Jew. They are opposites, who do not even worship the same God. I doubt this will come as a shock to you in the Fundamental world, which has been taught that the Jews are God's Chosen people. A little study in the Jewish holy book, the Babylonian Talmud will convince you that they are heading in opposite directions. Unfortunately very few Christian's pastors have ever read, or studied from the Talmud, soknow little about the Jewish religion, other than what the rabbis in their seminaries have taught them.

When anyone Jewish or non-Jewish is "born horn above" (John 3:3), they become a new creature, who is a Christian. It's impossible to be an antichrist of Judaism, and a believer in Jesus Christ at the same time, as a roan cannot have two masters. "

If a Jew can be saved, when this happens they are no longer a Jew, but a Christian. Yet few of them are willing to drop the Jewish ness out of their life.

The present issue of the Noahide Law was the work of the Jewish Senator Joseph Lieberman. He was the man who instigated their approval and sped its way through Congress. Most Senators were against what Lieberman was attempting to do, but were duped by this Jew, as many have been before. Many pastors in the Christian world, who have been leading their sheep to destruction, aided him.

President G. W. Bush Sr. signed these Noahide Laws into approved Law, on March 20, 1991, as P.L. 102-14.

Christian people in particular, must know what took place in our Law system that placed us under heathen law. This is why I am putting out this SPECIAL REPORT

yours for Christ and Country, Jack Mohr.

Noahide Law and the New World Order SEPARATION OF CHURCH AND STATE

By Charles A. Fuller, Jr. (July 1992)
REPRINTED WITH PERMISSION.

"We find few historians who have been diligent enough in their search for truth; it is their common method to take on trust what they help distribute to the public; by which means a falsehood once received from a famed writer becomes traditional to posterity."

John Dryden
English Poet, 1631-1700

Here's another issue that liberals and the media are so incredibly ignorant about, I can only shake my head. Regardless of how you feel about this issue, let's work with some facts so that we can all better understand the historical path that got America to its current state of sickening political correctness and how it relates to "separation of church and state." The following piece is as factual representation of this subject matter as I have found except for David Barton's superb film, America's Godly Heritage.

Supreme Court Ignores Founding Fathers on Prayer Issue

The U.S. Supreme Court has issued another decision undermining the U.S. Constitution and moral foundations of America. The recent court decision banning prayer at school graduation ceremonies ignores the intent of the Founding Fathers who clearly believed that religion must not be separated from civil government. In its latest decision, the high court ruled against prayer by a rabbi at Providence, R.I., junior high graduation. The 5-4 ruling continues the court's enforcement of an original doctrine created by the court in a 1947 decision when it falsified the intent of the First Amendment by only quoting part of Thomas Jefferson's views on the subject. The phrase "separation of church and state" does not appear in the Constitution, but originated in an 1802 letter by Thomas Jefferson to the Danbury (Connecticut) Baptist Association regarding their fears that the Congregationalists would use the power of government to gain a favored position.

Jefferson Wanted Christian Government The part of Jefferson's statement quoted by the high court was that "The First Amendment has erected a wall of separation between church and state. However, the court chose to ignore the remainder of Jefferson's comment which continues: "but that wall is a one-directional wall. It keeps the government from running the church but makes sure that Christian principles will always stay in government." [Editorial note: According to America's God and Country Encyclopedia of Quotations, "Jefferson borrowed phraseology from the famous Baptist minister Roger Williams who said,

'...the hedge or wall of separation between the garden of the church and the wilderness of the world, God hath broke down the wall'" Jefferson went on to say: 'Believing with you that religion is a matter which lies solely between man and his God, that he owes account to none other for faith or his worship, that the legislative powers of government reach actions only, and not opinions, I contemplate with solemn reverence that act of the whole American people which declared that their legislature should "make no law respecting an establishment of religion or prohibiting the free exercise thereof," thus building a wall of separation between Church and State.'

This personal letter reassured the Baptists that the government's hands were tied from interfering with, or in any way controlling, the affairs and decisions of the churches in America. Thomas Jefferson did not sign the Constitution, nor was he present at the Constitutional Convention of 1787. Neither was he present when the First Amendment and religious freedom were debated in the first session of Congress in 1789, as he was out of the country in France as a U.S. Minister. Due to his not being present to hear all the comments of the Founding Fathers regarding the First Amendment, Thomas Jefferson had to rely on second-hand information to learn what had transpired in that first session of Congress. This personal letter to the Danbury Baptists was written 13 years after the First Amendment.

Back to Mr. Fuller's article: The First Amendment simply reads: "Congress shall make no law respecting the establishment of religion or prohibiting the free exercise thereof." The amendment came about because Congress did not want one Christian denomination dictating to the country as had occurred in England and in Europe. It was never intended as a weapon for the Supreme Court to sweep religion out of government and education. The decision in 1947 embracing "separation of church and state" was made by court justices influenced by the doctrines of William James, the father of modern psychology. James strongly opposed religious principles in both government and education and sought a complete separation.

Repeating Lies

James, like Adolph Hitler, recognized the power of repetition in getting people to believe lies. He said, "There's nothing so absurd that if you repeat it often enough, people will believe it." Similarly, the Supreme Court and the mass media have used that technique so successfully that they have indoctrinated the bulk of the American people into believing the Constitution and the Founding Fathers favored removal of religion from both government and education. Nothing could be farther from the truth, and in fact, one dissenting Supreme Court justice wrote in 1958 that "if this court doesn't stop talking about separation of church and state, someone's going to think it's part of the Constitution."

[Editorial note: Again, let me quote Thomas Jefferson, six years after his letter to the Danbury Baptists. Letter to Samuel Miller, January 23, 1808: "I consider the government of the United States as interdicted by the Constitution from intermeddling with religious institutions, their doctrines, discipline, or exercises. This results not only from the provision of law that shall be made respecting the establishment or free exercise of religion, but from that also which reserves to the states the powers not delegated to the U S government [10th Amendment]. Certainly no power to prescribe any religious exercise, or to assume authority in religious discipline, has been delegated to the general government. It must then rest with the states as far as it can be in any human authority."

Remember, the first ten amendments to the Constitution of the United States were ratified on December 15, 1791. The above letter was written seventeen years after the ratification of the first amendment - which Jefferson was not a part of - a letter which only defines Jefferson's personal opinion. End of comment]

Back to Mr. Fuller's article : James Madison, the Founding Father most responsible for the Constitution, said the whole future of America's civilization is not taken on the power of government but rather "upon the capacity of each and every one of us to govern ourselves according to the 10 Commandments of God."_ John Quincy Adams said, "The highest glory of the American Revolution was this: That it connected in one dissoluble bond the principles of Christianity with the principles of civil government."

John Jay, the First Chief Justice of the U. S. Supreme Court, and a major framer of the Constitution said, "Providence has given to our people the choice of their rulers, and it is the duty as well as the privilege and interest of our Christian nation to select and prefer

Textbook are Censored

George Washington's farewell address, considered the most important political speech ever given in America, has been purged from most of today's school textbooks. Why? Probably because Washington advocated a course of action considered by today's liberals as "isolationism" in warning that America should stay out of Europe's intrigues. But there is undoubtedly another reason why Washington's speech has vanished from the textbooks. America's first President said, "Don't let anyone claim to be a true American. Don't let them claim the tribute of American patriotism if they ever attempt to remove religion from politics."

Benjamin Franklin wrote that "Whoever will introduce into public affairs the principles of Christianity will change the face of the world." Patrick Henry said, "It cannot be emphasized too strongly or too often that this great nation was founded not by religionists but by Christians. Not all religions, but on the gospel of Jesus Christ."

Founded on Christianity

America is the only nation in history that was founded upon Christianity, which the colonies established by Christian sects who used biblical principles to establish self-government. indeed, if it hadn't been for the intellectual and spiritual leadership of the churches, the American Revolution never would have been fought. Cornwallis, during his surrender at Yorktown, acknowledged the overriding importance of America's churches in the Revolution, when he threatened that England would ultimately take back the colonies through subversion of the American churches. The authors of The Christian History of the Constitution of the United States of America, wrote that "In proportion as Americans let go of faith in the absolute power of God, they have accepted the belief in an all powerful State. This is true of peoples or nations, for their ideal of God determines the form of their civil, political, religious and social institutions. Communism and socialism are anti-God and anti-Christian; the battle against Communism and socialism never was, and is not now, just economic and political; it is religious. "Consequently, in order to destroy America and turn it into a socialist paradise, it is first necessary to destroy Christianity by eliminating the people's faith in God and replacing it with faith in government_. What better way to do this than to banish all references to God and Christianity in the public schools as the Supreme Court has done repeatedly? In 1962, our anti-American Supreme Court banned school prayer; in 1963 it outlawed Bible reading, and in 1980, itoutlawed the posting of the Ten Commandments in schools where children could see them. The extreme danger which the absence of moral and religious instruction poses to a nation was well recognized by John Adams who wrote: "We have no government armed in power capable of contending with human passions unbridled by morality and religion. Our Constitution was made only for a moral and religious people. It is wholly inadequate for the government of any other." [Editorial note: On June 21, 1776, Adams also said, "Statesmen, my dear Sir, may plan and speculate for liberty, but it is religion and morality alone, which can establish the principles upon which freedom can securely stand. Only foundation of a free Constitution is pure and virtue, and if this cannot be inspired into our People in a greater Measure than they have it now, they may change their rulers and the forms of government, but they will not obtain a lasting liberty."

Test Scores Crash

In fact, since the 1962 and 1963 decisions banning school prayer and Bible reading, SAT scores declined in schools nationwide for 18 consecutive years, an unprecedented catastrophe. The damage doesn't end with poor SAT scores. Since the early 1960's America soared to first place in the western world in illiteracy, abortions, divorce, violent crime and drug use. What was the rabbi's prayer in Rhode Island that our illustrious Supreme Court felt compelled to strike down as a mortal threat to the nation? "We give thanks to you, Lord, for keeping us alive, sustaining us and allowing us to reach this happy occasion." What will the Supreme Court outlaw next? How about the Declaration of Independence? It mentions God four times." End of article.

Here's another issue that liberals and the media are so incredibly ignorant about, I can only shake my head. Regardless of how you feel about this issue, let's work with some facts so that we can all better understand the historical path that got America to its current state of sickening political correctness and how it relates to "separation of church and state." The following piece is as factual representation of this subject matter as I have found except for David Barton's superb film, America's Godly Heritage.

_Supreme Court Ignores Founding Fathers on Prayer Issue

The U.S. Supreme Court has issued another decision undermining the U.S. Constitution and moral foundations of America. The recent court decision banning prayer at school graduation ceremonies ignores the intent of the Founding Fathers who clearly believed that religion must not be separated from civil government. In its latest decision, the high court ruled against prayer by a rabbi at Providence, R.I., junior high graduation. The 5-4 ruling continues the court's enforcement of an original doctrine created by the court in a 1947 decision when it falsified the intent of the First Amendment by only quoting part of Thomas Jefferson's views on the subject. The phrase "separation of church and state" does not appear in the Constitution, but originated in an 1802 letter by Thomas Jefferson to the Danbury (Connecticut) Baptist Association regarding their fears that the Congregationalists would use the power of government to gain a favored position.

Jefferson Wanted Christian Government

The part of Jefferson's statement quoted by the high court was that "The First Amendment has erected a wall of separation between church and state. However, the court chose to ignore the remainder of Jefferson's comment which continues: "but that wall is a one-directional wall. It keeps the government from running the church but makes sure that Christian principles will always stay in government." _ [Editorial note: According to America's God and Country Encyclopedia of Quotations, "Jefferson borrowed phraseology from the famous Baptist minister Roger Williams who said, '...the hedge or wall of separation between the garden of the church and the wilderness of the world, God hath broke down the wall...'"

Jefferson went on to say: 'Believing with you that religion is a matter which lies solely between man and his God, that he owes account to none other for faith or his worship, that the legislative powers of government reach actions only, and not opinions, I contemplate with solemn reverence that act of the whole American people which declared that their legislature should "make no law respecting an establishment of religion or prohibiting the free exercise thereof," thus building a wall of separation between Church and State.'

This personal letter_ reassured the Baptists that the government's hands were tied from interfering with, or in any way controlling, the affairs and decisions of the churches in America. Thomas Jefferson did not sign the Constitution, nor was he present at the Constitutional Convention of 1787. Neither was he present when the First Amendment and religious freedom were debated in the first session of Congress in 1789, as he was out of the country in France as a U.S. Minister. Due to his not being present to hear all the comments of the Founding Fathers regarding the First Amendment, Thomas Jefferson had to rely on second-hand information to learn what had transpired in that first session of Congress. This personal letter to the Danbury Baptists was written 13 years after the First Amendment. End of editorial note.]

Back to Mr. Fuller's article: The First Amendment simply reads: "Congress shall make no law respecting the establishment of religion or prohibiting the free exercise thereof." The amendment came about because Congress did not want one Christian denomination dictating to the country as had occurred in England and in Europe. It was never intended as a weapon for the Supreme Court to sweep religion out of government and education. The decision in 1947 embracing "separation of church and state" was made by court justices influenced by the doctrines of William James, the father of modern psychology. James strongly opposed religious principles in both government and education and sought a complete separation.

Repeating Lies

James, like Adolph Hitler, recognized the power of repetition in getting people to believe lies. He said, "There's nothing so absurd that if you repeat it often enough, people will believe it." Similarly, the Supreme Court and the mass media have used that technique so successfully that they have indoctrinated the bulk of the American people into believing the Constitution and the Founding Fathers favored removal of religion from both government and education. Nothing could be farther from the truth, and in fact, one dissenting Supreme Court justice wrote in 1958 that "if this court doesn't stop talking about separation of church and state, someone's going to think it's part of the Constitution."

[Editorial note: Again, let me quote Thomas Jefferson, six years after his letter to the Danbury Baptists. Letter to Samuel Miller, January 23, 1808: "I consider the government of the United States as interdicted by the Constitution from intermeddling with religious institutions, their doctrines, discipline, or exercises. This results not only from the provision of law that shall be made respecting the establishment or free exercise of religion, but from that also which reserves to the states the powers not delegated to the U S government [10th Amendment]. Certainly no power to prescribe any religious exercise, or to assume authority in religious discipline, has been delegated to the general government. It must then rest with the states as far as it can be in any human authority."

Remember, the first ten amendments to the Constitution of the United States were ratified on December 15, 1791. The above letter was written seventeen years after the ratification of the first amendment - which Jefferson was not a part of - a letter which only defines Jefferson's personal opinion. End of comment] Back to Mr. Fuller's article : _James Madison, the Founding Father most responsible for the Constitution, said the whole future of America's civilization is not taken on the power of government but rather "upon the capacity of each and every one of us to govern ourselves according to the 10 Commandments of God." John Quincy Adams said, "The highest glory of the American Revolution was this: That it connected in one dissoluble bond the principles of Christianity with the principles of civil government."

John Jay, the First Chief Justice of the U. S. Supreme Court, and a major framer of the Constitution said, "Providence has given to our people the choice of their rulers, and it is the duty as well as the privilege and interest of our Christian nation to select and prefer Christian for their rulers".

Textbook are Censored

George Washington's farewell address, considered the most important political speech ever given in America, has been purged from most of today's school textbooks. Why? Probably because Washington advocated a course of action considered by today's liberals as "isolationism" in warning that America should stay out of Europe's intrigues. But there is undoubtedly another reason why Washington's speech has vanished from the textbooks. America's first President said, "Don't let anyone claim to be a true American. Don't let them claim the tribute of American patriotism if they ever attempt to remove religion from politics."

Benjamin Franklin wrote that "Whoever will introduce into public affairs the principles of Christianity will change the face of the world." Patrick Henry said, "It cannot be emphasized too strongly or too often that this great nation was founded not by religionists but by Christians. Not all religions, but on the gospel of Jesus Christ."

Founded on Christianity

America is the only nation in history that was founded upon Christianity, which the colonies established by Christian sects who used biblical principles to establish self-government. indeed, if it hadn't been for the intellectual and spiritual leadership of the churches, the American Revolution never would have been fought. Cornwallis, during his surrender at Yorktown, acknowledged the overriding importance of America's churches in the Revolution, when he threatened that England would ultimately take back the colonies through subversion of the American churches.

The authors of The Christian History of the Constitution of the United States of America, wrote that "In proportion as Americans let go of faith in the absolute power of God, they have accepted the belief in an all powerful State. This is true of peoples or nations, for their ideal of God determines the form of their civil, political, religious and social institutions. Communism and socialism are anti-God and anti-Christian; the battle against Communism and socialism never was, and is not now, just economic and political; it is religious."

Consequently, in order to destroy America and turn it into a socialist paradise, it is first necessary to destroy Christianity by eliminating the people's faith in God and replacing it with faith in government. What better way to do this than to banish all references to God and Christianity in the public schools as the Supreme Court has done repeatedly? In 1962, our anti-American Supreme Court banned school prayer; in 1963 it outlawed Bible reading, and in 1980, it outlawed the posting of the Ten Commandments in schools where children could see them. The extreme danger which the absence of moral and religious instruction poses to a nation was well recognized by John Adams who wrote:

"We have no government armed in power capable of contending with human passions unbridled by morality and religion. Our Constitution was made only for a moral and religious people. It is wholly inadequate for the government of any other." [Editorial note: On June 21, 1776, Adams also said, "Statesmen, my dear Sir, may plan and speculate for liberty, but it is religion and morality alone, which can establish the principles upon which freedom can securely stand. Only foundation of a free Constitution is pure and virtue, and if this cannot be inspired into our People in a greater Measure than they have it now, they may change their rulers and the forms of government, but they will not obtain a lasting liberty."]

Test Scores Crash

In fact, since the 1962 and 1963 decisions banning school prayer and Bible reading, SAT scores declined in schools nationwide for 18 consecutive years, an unprecedented catastrophe. The damage doesn't end with poor SAT scores. Since the early 1960's America soared to first place in the western world in illiteracy, abortions, divorce, violent crime and drug use. What was the rabbi's prayer in Rhode Island that our illustrious Supreme Court felt compelled to strike down as a mortal threat to the nation? "We give thanks to you, Lord, for keeping us alive, sustaining us and allowing us to reach this happy occasion." What will the Supreme Court outlaw next? How about the Declaration of Independence? It mentions God four times." End of article.

I did not bring this subject up to force anyone to embrace Christianity. But I believe that the architects of the New World Order have deliberately embarked upon a course of destroying the moral and religious fiber of this nation - and the attack upon Christianity will be rapidly stepped up in the immediate future. Why? As a famous Communist by the name of Lenin, said: "Destroy the family, you destroy the country" and religion from the earliest records of the history of this nation, has been the spiritual bond between families. Only a fool can't see that since the '60's, the moral fabric of this country has been torn asunder. What is the one common denominator behind many of our social ills? Lack of belief in God and the Ten Commandments - remember, Thou shall not kill? Over the past 30 years, life has become very cheap in America. Why not have an abortion, throw a newborn in a garbage dumpster, 12-year olds blow each other away in the inner-cities, why not, my sister had an abortion, what's the difference? Remember Thou shall not steal? Heck, why not, man, the government steals from us and besides. I want that stereo in my neighbor's house and I ain't got no money man, so what the hell? Remember Thou shall not covet thy neighbor's wife? Shoot, infidelity is a national pastime, I mean look at the President of the United States, while not inhaling his marijuana, he inhales another woman's perfume in the sack while Hillary is off on another feminist crusade. Remember thou shall not lie? Well, the President of the United States is the most prolific liar in history, my old man tells some good ones, what's the harm anyway? I mean, character doesn't matter, that's what the voters of America say. And people keep scratching their heads and wondering why America's moral foundation looks like the Murrah Building after the bombing in OKC?

America is a Christian nation and it was founded on Christiandoctrine. To attempt to say otherwise is to deny the very existence of our Republic and history. _ Let me ask liberals and politicians a question: What if 100,000 Catholics went to Israel and demanded that Israel become a Christian country? What if 100,000 Baptists went to Iran and demanded that Iran become a Christian nation? What would happen if 100,000 Presbyterians or Methodists went to Communist China and demanded that China become a Christian nation? The answer to these questions is without a doubt, _ NO, NO, and NO. So, why then are the liberals, the Muslims, the Buddhists, the Jews and atheists demanding in the loudest of voices that America can no longer be a Christian nation, that we should be forced to deny our very history and heritage just to suit those who come to America to seek religious and personal freedom?

Does this mean that Americans who wish to worship as Muslims, Jews, Mormons or Buddhists can't do so? Of course not. This is one of the most important aspects of the First Amendment - that you can worship the religion of your choice. _But I am sick and tired and fed up with all the special interest non-Christian religious organizations, Congress, the White House and the U.S. Supreme Court doing their absolute darndest to wipe out Christianity in the United States and deny us our Christian heritage.

There can be no mistake if anyone takes the time to study the hard-core effect at eradication of Christianity and the Ten Commandments from America, you can see the moral rot and how its spread through all layers of our society. For those who would like to research this in more depth, I fully recommend David Barton's outstanding video titled, America's Godly Heritage_ from Wall Builders, P.O. Box 397, Aledo, TX 76008 and the book, _ America's God and Country Encyclopedia of Quotations by William J. Federer, your local bookseller can order it, just give them the ISBN # 1-880563-09-6.

It is quite amazing how the U S. Supreme Court has evolved over the years, legislating from the bench, hallucinating their decisions based on a Constitution I've never seen. But then again, look at the people who make up the court, three of them today are CFR and that spells anti-American. A few words from the bench back when America as a whole still believed in morals, integrity and character: _"Our laws and our institutions must necessarily be based upon and embody the teachings of the Redeemer of mankind. It is impossible that it should be otherwise; and in this sense and to this extent, our civilization and our institutions are emphatically Christian." _The U.S. Supreme Court, 1892, Church of Holy Trinity v. United States. If there is this big separation of church and state and the liberals go ballistic over Christianity, why then did Congress make the Jewish religion the officially recognized religion of the United States?_ No, you say? Below is Public Law 102-14 [Hi Res. 104] March 20, 1991:

Education Day, U.S.A Proclamation, Joint Resolution designating March 26, 1991 as Education Day USA , and it states:

WHEREAS Congress recognizes the historical tradition of ethical values and principles which are the basis of civilized society and upon which our great nation was founded;

WHEREAS these ethical values and principles have been the bedrock of society from the dawn of civilization, when they are known as the Seven Noahide Laws;

WHEREAS_ without these ethical values and principle the edifice of civilization stands in serious peril of returning to chaos;

WHEREAS society is profoundly concerned with the recent weakening of these principles that have resulted in crises that beleaguer and threaten the fabric of civilized society;

WHEREAS_ the justified preoccupation with these crises must not let the citizens of this Nation lose sight of their responsibility to transmit these historical ethical values from our distinguished part to the generations of the future;

WHEREAS the Lubavitch movement has fostered and promoted these ethical values and principles throughout the world;

WHEREAS Rabbi Menachem Schneerson, leader of the Lubavitch movement is universally respected and revered and his eighty-ninth birthday falls on March 26, 1991;

WHEREAS in tribute to this great spiritual leader, "the rebbe," this, his ninetieth year, will be seen as one of "education and giving," the year in which we turn to education and charity. To return the world to the moral and ethical values contained in the Seven Noahide Laws; and

WHEREAS this will be reflected in an international scroll of honor signed by the President of the United States and other heads of state. Now, therefore, be it resolved by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled that March 26, 1991, the start of the ninetieth year of Rabbi Schneerson, leader of _the worldwide Lubavitch movement, is designated as "Education Day, USA..." The President is requested to issue a proclamation calling upon the people of the U.S. to observe such day with appropriate ceremonies and activities. This resolution was adopted, ratified and signed into law by George Bush.

The following commentary on this resolution was written by Don Bell, Box 2223, Palm Beach, Fl 33480, March 1992:

"The Seven Noahide Laws are mentioned twice in Public Law 102-14, but are not spelled out. They seem difficult to find in English translation. We were not able to find them. A Christian pastor and subscriber informs us that they appear in a book written by one Rabbi Marvin Antelman, but we haven't been able to locate the book. However, they can be seen in the Institute of Judaic-Christian Researcher, January, 1990, in the following form:

(1) Thou shalt not engage in idol worship; (2) Thou shalt not blaspheme God; (3) Thou shalt not shed innocent blood of a human or fetus nor ailing person who has a limited time to live; (4) Thou shalt not engage in bestial, incestuous, adulterous or homosexual relations nor commit the act of rape; (5) Thou shalt not steal; (6) Thou shalt establish laws and courts of law to administer these laws, including the death penalty for those who kill, administered only if there is one testifying witness; (7) Thou shalt not be cruel to animals.

Further information concerning the Noahide Laws are found on Page 737 of Encyclopedia Americana: "A Jewish Talmudic designation for seven biblical laws_ given to Adam and to Noah before the revelation to Moses on Mt Sinai and consequently binding all mankind. Beginning with Genesis 2:16, the Babylonian Talmud listed the first six commandments ... After the flood a seventh commandment, given-to Noah, forbade the eating of flesh from living animals (Genesis 9:4). Throughout the ages scholars have viewed the Noahide Laws as a link between Judaism and Christianity, as universal norms of ethical conduct, as a basic concept of international law, or as a guarantee of fundamental human rights for all."_

Now Facts With Comment. In the Bible there is a reference to the Noahic Covenant and the rainbow and its symbol and promise, _but there is no mention of any Seven Noahide Laws. These come not from the Bible, but from the Babylonian Talmud._ (The Torah is defined by Webster as "the whole body of Jewish religious literature including the Scriptures, the Talmud, etc.) Since these laws apply to all mankind, it is said in Noahidic literature that "The Seven Noahide Laws may now receive recognition as a source of international law. By stating that the 'ethical principles' which have been 'the bedrock of society from the dawn of civilization' are the Seven Noahide Laws," Public Law 102-14, provides national recognition to both a theoretical foundation and the justification for general principles of law

This theoretical foundation anticipates further international recognition by its incorporation in an 'international scroll of honor signed by the President of the United States and other heads of state,' and essaying to 'return to the world' the Seven Noahide Laws for 'international law.' Here we see the real reason for passage of Public Law 102- 14. It is a step towards establishment of a law code for a one world government " End of comment

Referring to the Seven Noahide Laws, Gordon Ginn, Phd., comments: "A superficial reading of these 'laws' may elicit a favorable response from those who have not done their homework. But the crux of the matter is how they are interpreted. For example, if Orthodox Jews interpret them, every Christian would be guilty of violating number one (Thou shalt not engage in idol worship) because no cross, crucifix, image, photograph, or anything that could be construed as an icon would be allowed. Christians would be guilty of violating number two (Thou shalt not blaspheme God) because they believe that Jesus Christ was God in the flesh, and that is blasphemy to the Jews. The Jews believe that Jesus was not the son of God but only a prophet. Technically, every Christian on the face of the earth could be executed under these laws. [Editorial note: How about number 7: That it is a violation of the Seven Noahide Laws to eat the flesh of animals? Shall all Christians then be executed because one witness saw them at Black Angus restaurant eating a steak? Think about it.]

"Whoever is behind the 'Seven Noahide Laws' is not wasting any time nailing down their dastardly plans. On the day (March 20th) that George Bush signed the resolution into law, the Wall Street Journal carried a front page story about the Noahides. And now that we are saddled with this "law," the Noahides are exploring the feasibility of taking it worldwide through the United Nations. It seems to me that this fits right in with Bush's New World Order." End of Ginn quote.

There is more material but due to space constraint, I'll have to leave it up to readers to research this for themselves. The bottom line is this: It's unconstitutional to display the 10 Commandments anywhere in public now. Crosses placed at the side of the road by people who have lost a loved one are now under attack because some people are offended by seeing a cross. But Congress can vote into law the requirement that Americans adopt the Jewish religion and that these Seven Noahide Laws will now somehow constitute international law? Isn't this unconstitutional?

Give me a break. Only a fool can't see what's going on here. And why would Congress even consider such action in favor of one religion over another, say a resolution to support Muslims'? Perhaps this might shed some light on that question: In an essay reprinted in the May 27, 1996 issue of The New York Times, Ari Shavit, an Israeli columnist, reflected somewhat sorrowfully on the wanton Israeli killing of more than 100 Lebanese civilians in April. "We killed them out of a certain naive nubris. Believing with absolute certitude THAT NOW WITH THE WHITE HOUSE, THE SENATE AND MUCH OF THE AMERICAN MEDIA IN OUR HANDS, THE LIVES OF OTHERS DO NOT COUNT SO MUCH AS OUR OWN."

This is a shocking statement in more ways than one. First of all, what does Mr. Shavit mean when he says the Jews have the White House, the Senate and much of the American media "in our hands"? And second, what does that have anything to do with the "wanton killing of more than 100 Lebanese civilians"? What does the wanton killing of more than 100 human beings have to do with Jews having the White House, the Senate and much of the American media "in our hands"? How does this equate to other people's lives not being as important as Jewish lives? These statements are very serious and should make all Americans, including those of the Jewish faith, ponder the implications of such words. If you are an American citizen, your first allegiance should be to America, not Israel or Germany or Canada.

Getting back to a Public Law passed by Congress that America should adopt Jewish laws as the bedrock of our society; our great nation was not founded on the Seven Noahide Laws or the Jewish religion. It was not founded on the Catholic Church or the Baptist faith or Buddhism. It was founded on Christianity and the teachings of Jesus Christ, not a specific religion or church. I am one of the most religiously tolerant people I know. I have read the religious doctrines of more than 30 world religions. I disagree with many of the precepts of these religions, i.e. that I am the spawn of the Devil as preached in the Islamic religion because I was born "white." But, as long as someone doesn't try to force their religion on me, as I would not do unto them, let us live in peace and harmony together. And, let us hope that Public Law 102-14 gets challenged in court and is struck down because it is grossly unconstitutional to establish any religion as the religion of the United States, never mind the rest of the world.

Unfortunately, the media and some of these religious "leaders" don't want us to live in peace and harmony. If we don't agree with their religion, we automatically must be anti-Semitic or anti-something, just as long as it inflames the passions of the people. Just say no and refuse to be drawn into this race and religion baiting. If we refuse to play their game, they won't have a battleground and we will win. Divided we will fall.

"Of all the systems of morality, ancient or modern, which have come under my observation, none appears to me so pure as that of Jesus." _ --Thomas Jefferson

Commentary by Joe Farah of World Net Daily April,

1999 Congress and the Ten Commandments